Weekly Progress Reports

Student Name

Weekly progress reports are the responsibility of the student. On the last day of the academic week:

1. The student should present this weekly progress report to each teacher at the beginning of class.
2. The teacher completes and returns the report to the student at the end of class
3. The student presents the completed report to his/her parents.

Parents have found it helpful to tie privileges with a completed report. If the report is presented to the parents on the last day of the academic week, then the student is granted some form of immediate privilege. This short-term consequence motivates students to complete the reports.
