

My Netflix List

by Shawna Moore

I've always been obsessed with movies – all kinds of movies. I love being able to see my favorite actors play different roles and have different identities. I'm always willing to see what's coming out on DVD or in theaters. I'm more interested in scary movies and comedy movies. I'm not into "chick flicks." So here are some of the movies I want to see, some that are out in theater and some that might be out on DVD.

The Haunting in Connecticut is a thriller based on a true story. This movie is about a family that moves into a new house that used to be a former mortuary. Then supernatural things start happening to the family. Their only hope is their son that can communicate with the dead.

"I love scary movies, so I'm really excited to see this movie because it looks really good" Sam Wade explained.

Knowing is a drama, mystery, and thriller combined. It also has one of my favorite actors in it, Nicholas Cage. He plays a teacher who opens up a time capsule, with a piece of paper in it with some predictions that have already happened and some are going to happen soon. The teacher thinks that these predictions are going to be about him and his family.

"This movie was really good, during each part, I was always wondering what was going to happen next," Samantha Sainsbury said.

The Last House on the Left is a horror/thriller, about two women that get kidnapped by a gang, and are brutally assaulted. The gang is led by a prison escapee played by Garret Dillahunt, he finds a shelter at a vacation home that coincidentally belonged to the parents of the two victims. The parents plan an increasingly gruesome revenge. This movie looks scary, it also looks really good.

"The movie was very intriguing," Jake Brooks stated.

Friday the 13th is, yet another horror/thriller movie. It's about a group of teenagers that visit a camp, Camp Crystal Lake. They discover the shocking history behind it, and try to escape.

"Friday the 13th was an OK movie. It isn't a movie that I'd watch again, though. You know those movies that you could watch over and over again and never get tired of them?" Lauren Holm explained.

My Bloody Valentine is a crime/horror/mystery/thriller all in one. This movie is about a man named Tom, and he returns to his hometown on the tenth anniversary of the Valentine's night massacre that claimed the lives of 22 people. Instead of just returning home to relax, Tom turns out to be a suspected of committing the murders. This movie is in 3D, which makes it seem more real, and more interesting.

"This movie was interesting, it wasn't what I expected it to be," Tyrre DeMritt.

The Haunting of Molly Hartley is a horror, thriller movie, it's about a girl named Molly who tries to escape her past by moving and going to a different school. She ends up meeting new people, and making some good friends. But when she turns eighteen, strange things start happening to her. It turns out that when she was born, her parents gave her soul to the devil to keep her alive.

"It was an OK movie, it was confusing for me," Haley Bushman said.

There are many movies that I'd like to see, but these are at the top of my list. Whether it be a scary movie, or just a movie that will give me a good laugh, I'm always looking for the best that is out there.
